Pocketpair recruitment team, Tokyo

October 2026

Application: Project Manager (Palworld or new titles), Pocketpair

Dear Pocketpair team,

My name is Sabri Mohamadi. I am a Producer and Game Designer based in Tokyo, and from 2023 to 2025 I was Global Associate Producer on the Little Nightmares franchise at Bandai Namco Entertainment Europe. I am writing to apply for the Project Manager position on Palworld or your new titles.

I came to production from programming. I trained as a developer, built tools and prototypes before I ever drew a schedule, and I still code to tell my own stories. That background is why I enjoy the part of the job you describe: sitting between the people who make the game and the plan that has to hold.

At Bandai Namco I worked on three projects in parallel with external studios: Supermassive Games on Little Nightmares III, Iconik on Little Nightmares VR: Altered Echoes, and Playdigious on the mobile port in the run-up to launch, plus porting work with Engine Software. I built and tracked milestone schedules, reviewed every delivery, raised risks early and reported progress to stakeholders and the IP holder. I also rebuilt our tracking on Jira, Confluence and SharePoint and automated a weekly report that used to take a full day. The three games shipped on twelve platforms.

The role also asks for team management and quality checks. I never managed people at Bandai Namco, so I will be honest about that. The closest I have done is coordinating the schedule of six student game projects, about forty people, at the Nightmare Games incubator, and coaching their project leads. For quality, I reviewed builds at every milestone and turned an accessibility audit into a prioritised backlog that the team shipped.

I have played Palworld and followed Pocketpair closely since: an independent studio behind one of the biggest launches of 2024, which now also publishes other indie teams. It is also a team of people from many countries, the setting where I have been most useful. French is my native language and English my working language. I understand most spoken Japanese and hold everyday conversations; reading and writing are still behind, and I take classes in Tokyo to close that gap.

I am available now. My portfolio is at sabri-mohamadi.fr. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Kind regards,

Sabri Mohamadi
