PLAYISM recruitment team, Active Gaming Media, Osaka — October 2026

Application: Assistant Producer, PLAYISM (Osaka)

Indie games are where I started. My first serious project was NaJiKi, a horror game I designed and produced and took to pitch competitions in France, and today in Tokyo I am preparing a series of interviews with indie developers in Japan for my YouTube channel, I am Hika. Helping games like these reach players around the world, from the publisher side, is what I did for two years at Bandai Namco, and what I would like to do at PLAYISM.

As Global Associate Producer on Little Nightmares at Bandai Namco Entertainment Europe, I was part of the core team behind the franchise's worldwide strategy. I worked on three projects in parallel: Little Nightmares III with Supermassive Games, Little Nightmares VR: Altered Echoes with Iconik, and the mobile port of the original with Playdigious in the run-up to launch, plus porting work with Engine Software. I was the day-to-day contact for these developers, reviewed every milestone delivery, tracked progress and reporting, and kept QA, localisation, analytics, marketing and communications aligned. I helped ship the three games on twelve platforms, from PS5 and Switch 2 to Meta Quest and iOS.

I still work with indie teams today: as a freelancer, I help independent creators, collectives and small studios with production setup, playtests and gameplay reviews, and I teach Producing, Game Design and Level Design at Ynov Campus as a Visiting Lecturer.

I live in Tokyo and can start right away, including relocating to Osaka. English is my working language and French my native language, which can help with developers and players in Europe. I understand most spoken Japanese and hold everyday conversations with ease; reading and writing are still behind, and I am taking classes to close that gap.

My portfolio, CV and 職務経歴書 are at sabri-mohamadi.fr. I would be glad to talk about how I can support your developers and releases.

Kind regards,

Sabri Mohamadi
